What is your connection to sarcoma or your sarcoma story?

Losing my father to cancer led me into healthcare communications and patient advocacy - I still remember the overwhelming feeling of helplessness.

What's most important to know about your organization?

SPAGN is the global community of sarcoma patient advocates, sharing one common goal of helping others in their journey with sarcoma and improving lives and outcomes of sarcoma patients globally. We want to be a connector and trusted partner.

What are you most interested in collaborating on?

Research, Awareness, Access, Policy, Partnerships, Innovation, Patient Support

Your role in the organisation and main areas of involvement:

I am the Executive Director and oversee all activities.

How can others best connect with you after the conference?
