

SAMVAD

Virtual, On-ground & In-person interactive awareness drives

OBJECTIVE

To conduct both virtual and on-ground awareness programs focusing on all types of cancers, while also addressing the associated psychosocial issues.

ABOUT THE PROGRAM

The awareness sessions are conducted across various locations in the country, engaging individuals from all economic and social backgrounds. These programs aim to educate people about the early signs and symptoms of cancer, the importance of timely screening, and the availability of treatment options.

The sessions also focus on dispelling myths and misconceptions surrounding cancer, promoting positive attitudes toward prevention and care.

General Public

Through Samvaad initiatives, the program seeks to build a well-informed grassroots community, it encourages early diagnosis, and extends emotional and social support to those affected. It also provides a platform for the general public to share their concerns and experiences related to the disease and also helping to eliminate the stigma associated with cancer. These discussions strengthen the belief that cancer is curable and highlight the many survivors as inspiring examples for others.
